A Special thank you to the Family of Mr. George P. Read for their generous donations. Ticket Proceeds go towards clinicians' fees, bus transportation, awards and other operating expenses.

Thank you for supporting our music programs.

Guidelines for the Audience

Please enter or exit the auditorium between ensemble performances only. It is polite to wait at the back of the auditorium until an appropriate pause in the program. Children in the audience should be seated with a responsible adult. If the child with you becomes noisy or cries, please take the child from the auditorium at any time to soothe him or her. Your appreciation is shown not only by your applause after their performance, but also by your silence during their performance. Students have worked extremely hard to develop soft musical dynamics. A selection is finished when the conductor turns and faces the audience or when the conductor drops arms completely. Please refrain from applause until that time. While applause at the end of a selection is appreciated, whistling and shouting is not. During a selection, solos should be applauded only if they are of pop nature (jazz, swing, etc.)

Text and Translations

Camino Caminante (Spanish)

“Traveler, there is no path. Paths are made by walking”
Oh, when we travel we travel alone.

Hexenlied (German)

Witches’ Song

Swallows are flying,
Spring’s triumphant,
And it is giving us flowers for wreaths!
Soon we’ll flit quietly outside,
And fly to the splendid dance!
A black goat, A broomstick,
The furnace rake, the distaff
Whisk us on our way, like lightning and wind,
Through roaring winds to the Brocken!
Our coven dances around
And kisses the claw-like hands!
A ghostly throng seizes our arms,
Waving torches as they dance!
And the dancers are given gift after gift.
They shall be dressed in beautiful silks
And dig up pots full of gold!
A fiery dragon flies around the roof
And brings us butter and eggs:
The neighbors see the flying sparks,
And cross themselves for fear of the fire.
Swallows are flying. Spring is triumphant!
Flowers rival each other in blooming.
Soon we’ll flit quietly outside and fly to the splendid dance!

Text and Translations

Dies Irae (Latin)

Day of Wrath

Day of wrath, day that will when the judge comes
Dissolve the world into burning coals, To strictly sentence all.
As David prophesied with the Oracle.
How great trembling there will be.
Grant them eternal rest and be merciful.
Save me.

Eu e Você (Portugese)

Me and You

Ah, dear.
My beloved one, I gave to you my heart.
Other love existed, but it was pure illusion.
I had a beautiful house prepared for us to live together.
I am happy because I know that I have you!
Ah, Me and You.

Ecco mormorar l'onde (Italian)

Now the waves gently murmur

Now the waves gently murmur

And the boughs and the shrubs tremble in the morning breeze,

And on the green branches the pleasant birds sing softly

And the east smiles;

Now dawn already appears

And mirrors herself in the sea,

And makes the sky serene,

And the gentle frost is pearl like on the fields

And gilds the high mountains:

O beautiful and gracious Aurora,

The breeze is your messenger, and you of the breeze

Which restores each burnt-out heart.

Hela Rotan (Indonesian)

Pull the Rattan

This is a popular Indonesian folk song about the game of tug of war from the island of Maluku in the Moluccas.

"In the game, even though we compete, the party who wins or loses will get a prize: 'togetherness.'"
